EPA is committed to working closely with response agencies and state and local officials to ensure the safety of citizens, respond to concerns and to evaluate impact to water contaminated by the Gold King Mine Release. EPA is sharing information as quickly as possible with the public as experts work to evaluate any effects the spill may have on drinking water, public health, agriculture, fish and wildlife.

You idiots at the EPA, former mayor of Boulder, who better to lead this nonsensical agency.

Nothing was wrong here, nothing, but in your infinite wisdom, you decide to dig a pond to release water from a closed mine, so in the future a bigger problem didn't take place, goes hand in hand with global warming don't 'ya think, and cause the very problem you said you were trying to avoid.

It's past time to END the EPA and other government agencies, who are making decisions based on non factual statements made by supporters to bolster this type of activity, nonsense!
